1. Emerging Markets: Still Driving Global Economic Growth?

Emerging markets – from those in Asia and Latin America to Africa and Central/Eastern Europe – have underpinned global economic growth for the past several years. However, slowing economies such as China's, weaker currencies, an over-reliance on commodities and political instability, among other factors, are decelerating growth. What risks do these trends pose to firms exporting, importing or investing in these markets? What can we expect in terms of political and economic changes over the next decade? Learn more about what industries are poised to grow, creating trade and investment opportunities.

Moderator: Dr. Penny Prime Professor of International Business, Robinson College of Business, Georgia State University

Panelists: Dr. Jagdish Sheth, Charles H. Kellstadt Professor of Marketing, Emory University
Christian Louis, Senior VP, International Corporate Banking, BBVA Compass
Dr. Thomas J. Cunningham, Senior Vice President - Chief Economist, Metro-Atlanta Chamber of Commerce
Jerry Striplin, Principal Consultant and Sr. Advisor, International / Domestic Economic Growth

2. Global Trends to Build, Innovate and Attract

Both companies and governments at all levels – city, state, national – are searching for ways to compete. How do companies engage in product and process innovation as well as design thinking to not only survive but thrive in today's global economy? How do governments build a favorable business environment to incentivize innovation, attract investment and help create well-paying, sustainable jobs? Are there ways in which companies and governments can partner to achieve their goals? Panelists will address these and other questions. Participants will gain information and novel insights about these global trends.

Moderator: Taylor Prichard, Chief Analyst, Conway, Inc.

Panelists: Mary Waters, Deputy Commissioner, International Trade, Georgia Department of Economic Development
Dr. Stephen E. Cross, Executive VP, Research, Georgia Institute of Technology
Serra Hall, Director of Commercial Development, Newton County
Corporate Representative
Monika Vintrikova, Vice President and Customer Unit Manager, ALBAform, Inc.

3. Securing Imports and Exports

Government agencies who are tasked with international trade oversight and regulatory enforcement not only secure America's borders protecting the public from dangerous people and materials, their mission is also to enhance the Nation's global economic competitiveness by enabling legitimate trade and travel. These agencies also preserve our nation's natural resources; protect, restore, and enhance the world's diverse wildlife; protect public health by ensuring the safety, efficacy, and security of products imported into or exported from the US. Participants will gain an understanding of the latest rules and regulations governing imports and exports, and how these affect corporate growth plans.

Moderator: Cheryl Crook Thompson, Customs and Export Compliance Manager, Global Trade, Eaton's Cooper Lighting

Panelists: Brian C. Bujdoso, Assistant Special Agent, Homeland Security Investigations, Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Atlanta, GA

12:00-1:30pm Luncheon & Distinguished Panel Discussion:

North America Rising? Maintaining a Competitive Advantage in a Volatile Global Economy

The United States, Canada and Mexico - three different economies located in the same North American region - are bound by highly integrated industries partly facilitated by a North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). How will their economies change over the next decade vis-à-vis global competitors? Where will the trade and investment opportunities arise, particularly under the prospect of a revised NAFTA? Will traditional industries such as automotive, agriculture and energy continue to drive growth, or, new ones such as digital media and cleantech? Understanding these processes will help firms make informed strategic decisions about their trade and investment activities in the region.

Moderator: Dr. Diane Alleva Cáceres, Founder & CEO, Market Access International, Inc.

Panelists: Edward Alden, Bernard L. Schwartz Senior Fellow, Council on Foreign Relations
Ambassador Gordon Giffin, Partner, Dentons; Former U.S. Ambassador to Canada
Javier Díaz de León, Consul General, Consulate General of Mexico in Atlanta
Louise Blais, Consul General, Consulate General of Canada in Atlanta

Global Leadership Award Presentation

1:45-3:15pm "Conversations that Matter" Parallel Roundtables (Choice of One)

1. Advanced Manufacturing: The Impact of Technology and a Changing Workforce on Company Competitiveness

To thrive in today's global economy manufacturers are using technology that integrates processes not just within the firm, but across operations and their entire global value chain. At the same time, their qualified workforce is shrinking and customers want products faster. How can firms be productive in order to compete? What role does international trade and investment play? Facilitated by a subject matter expert and smaller group discussions, participants will engage in discussion and acquire knowledge to help them improve their competitive positions.

Moderator: John Morehouse, Director, Center of Innovation for Manufacturing

Panelists: Laura Lee Bocade, Market Development and Green Team Leader – DIRTTE Southeast, DIRTTE Environmental Solutions
Eliel Perez, Chief Engineer, SIPA North America
Mike Price, SHRM-SCP, Director and GM of Human Resources and Administration, Nidec Elesys Americas Corporation (Subsidiary of Honda Motor)
